One chilly September evening Lenny and his best friend Leo were playing football in the corner of Lenny's eye he spotted the black out sign. It said 8:35pm they knew they needed to be back home by 8:45pm. "Come on Lenny one more match!"
yelled Leo.
"I guess we could have just one more?" replied
Lenny in an unwavering voice.
All of a sudden the glaring warning noise of the screeching sirens flicked off Lenny's heart tuned to stone! They knew they had to get back they were filled with panic. "Maybe we should get back Leo!" suggested Lenny.
"We still have a few more minutes," answered
Leo.

Perfect postcard! (w/MS)

Dear Charles,
London has been great! It has been really nice to visit of sunlight here and there.
I hope you went to HMV since there was a guitar machine but instead of guitar, it had HMV. There was also a Guinness and statue of an HMV. I saw one of the towers
It was all a beautiful shade of gold with gold stripes and buildings. It was like a castle!
I am writing to you in the National History Museum.
I have seen many and made of important people the Julius Caesar. From the gift shop I bought lip balm and silly-beans.
I'm hoping to see someone important like Jesus.

Something more and it gets better - still and see some dancing. I recommend going because you get to dance again! I have been travelling on a river Thames boat and have seen lots of king, early gibbins. I have seen amazing sights on it like Tower Bridge and Buckingham Palace. I guess that's like seeing the queen!
Did you know tower bridge was built between 1890 and 1894.
