How can I help my child attend school regularly and on time?

- Help your child organise everything they need the night before—book bag, reading books, homework, water bottle.
- Do not keep your child off school unless they are too ill to attend. A mild cold is not really justifiable.
- Avoid making medical appointments during school hours.
- Provide us with more than one emergency contact for your child, to ensure that if we receive no response from one number, we can try the others that you have provided.
- Co-operate with our school to make sure your child overcomes any attendance problems.
- Discuss planned absences with the school and apply for permission well in advance.
- Do not keep your child off school if they are worried or have a problem -talk with them and to their teacher.

Over a school year:
5 minutes late every day =
2 days absent.
15 minutes late every day =
7 days absent.

What are my responsibilities?

The Education Act 1996 requires parents to ensure their children, of compulsory school age, receive efficient full-time education.

If a child of compulsory school age fails to attend regularly at a school at which they are registered. The parents may be guilty of an offence and can be prosecuted by the Local Authority.

Can I take my child out of school for a holiday?

In total there are 176 non-school days a year. This gives families the opportunity to:

- Spend time together
- Go on family visits and days out
- Go on holiday
- Go shopping
- Attend medical appointments

The latest changes to education law state that schools may not grant leave of absence during term time unless there are 'exceptional circumstances'

We consider every request individually. We understand that some situations are beyond parental control, for example graduations, family court hearings and medical emergencies.

We will require evidence to support any request made under exceptional circumstances from medical professionals, employers, or other professionals involved with the family to support any application made during term time.

We will not grant permission for a birthday, a special anniversary; nor will we accept a written petition from any family member.
